Not Asked, Anyway

Comedians Bob Hope, left, and Jack Benny today termed "a joke" complaints in Toronto that their gags belittle the British Empire. They had been mentioned as possible headliners for this year's Canadian National Exhibition and labor leaders in Toronto said they were unsuitable because they wisecracked against Britain. Hope said "I can't understand why they're so touchy. Far be it from me to belittle the British Empire any more than I would joke about the President's chair . . . but when it comes to Ike's golf or Churchill's painting, that's different.' Benny said he was always careful of his gag material, "and what's more, I have never belittled the British." Also, both comedians said they hadn't been approached to star at the CNE, anyway.

Mr. Kenney and the CCF

ald, perhaps unwittingly, did the Liberal party and its House leader, E. T. Kenney, a grave disservice one day last week when it headlined a parliamentary report: "KENNEY BACKS CCF IF SOCRED REGIME

The Canadian Press report on which this lurid headline was based, of course, said no such thing. Mr. Kenney has never departed from the well-known Liberal principles of free enterprise, which are the antithesis of socialism. Nor has he ever, at any time, suggested that his balanceof-power group in the House would "back" the CCF.

What Mr. Kenney said, with high integrity, was that the CCF, having acquired the same number of seats in the House as the Socreds, by vote of the people, should be entitled to a chance to govern if Mr. Bennett asks for a dissolution and a new election. Mr. Kenney leans to the Dr. Forsey view of constitutional procedure, which he has every right to do; but on this score, we cannot agree

On constitutional precedent and procedure, as established in 1926, Mr. Winch would be entitled to a chance to govern only if the Lieuten ant-Governor is advised by his first minister, Mr. Bennett, that he cannot carry on and that (this is the significant point) there is an alternative party which can offer substantial assurance of its ability to govern.

Mr. Winch, of course, can offer such assurance since all other parties, including Mr. Kenney's (and 75 per cent of the people) are unal-terably opposed to his political phiosophies. To suggest that he be 'given a chance' would be to repeat losophies. the Meighen fiaseo of 1926, to invite the political mish-mash which has a mockery of orderly government in France, with its plethora of splinter groups.

It is now quite clear that Mr. Bennett can govern so long as he does not attempt to introduce any controversial legislation, particularly the curious ideas of Mr. Aberhart or Major Douglas. The veteran Conservative member for Vancouver Point Grey, Mr. George Miller, in pledging the support of his party in the house the other day, summed it up very well when he said: "What a great opportunity to give the people good government! What's holding you

Playing for High Stakes

THE IMPORTANCE OF THE Middle East in the cold war was highlighted by two events yesterday. Britain and Egypt reached agree ment on the future of Sudan and agreement in principle on evacuation of Suez. Russia severed diplomatic relations with Israel.

Both incidents carried implications far beyond their immediate effect. They were vital moves in the struggle that involves the Mediterranean 'basin-whether its political outfall will be eastward or westward.

The Sudan question has been a point of contention between Britain and Egypt for several years. Under an agreement of 1899 the 1,000,000 square-mile territory along the upper Nile has been administered jointly by the two countries. But Egypt under Farouk, and still more insistently under Naguib, has called for departure of the British.

That cry has also split the two powers in regard to the Suez Canal area, where Britain under agreement maintains troops. Egypt has more than once attempted to cancel the arrangement on her own, but Britain has not recognized any such action. The troops remain, and were engaged in active combat during the uprisings of last year.

Long negotiations have now borne fruit. Agreement has now been reached that the Sudanese shall determine their own future: whether they shall join Egypt, join the British Commonwealth, or set up an independent state. They have three years to decide, and provision has been made for international supervision of elections to a Sudanese parliament

Certain details still remain to be worked out in regard to British withdrawal from Suez, but the principle has been established and no doubt will be implemented.

Naturally, Britain is not making retrenchments in her African influence without something in return. This will entail the co-operation and support of Egypt in a Middle East defense system to operate in conjunction with the Atlantic Pact or-

Important as control of the canal such a defensive group obviously involves potentials far greater than those inherent in the Suez and Sudan situations. Britain would appear to abandoning a 19th century play favor of a 20th century gambit.

The counter-move was quick in coming. It was probably no coincidence that almost simultaneously Russia announced the break-off with Israel That, of course, was not un-expected. The Soviet has launched increasingly virulent attacks on the new Jewish state ever since the latter showed signs of looking westward rather than toward Moscow. Coupled with the anti-Israel campaign have been sweeping onslaughts against Zionism and sharp persecution of Jewish officials throughout Russia and the satellites.

The formal diplomatic severance will win the Soviet friends in the Arab world, where antagonism toward Israel is a major point of policy. The move will carry weight in the Mediterranean struggle.

The attention of the world is centred on the warships and guns of Formosa, Korea and other theatres of the Far East. But the green baize operations, the quieter diplomatic plays in the Middle East, may well prove much more important for peace, or for victory in a possible war, than the louder activity in the Pacific.

Another Look at the Highway

DROBLEMS OF ENGINEERING in determining the route to be es-tablished for the second phase of Victoria's outlet to the Island Highway. Subject to those considerations. the proposal advanced by Public Works Minister Gaglardi has much to commend it.

Mr. Gaglardi suggests the roadway may be constructed from Burnside Road, near its present juncture with the highway, through virgin territory south of Thetis Lake and thence to the highway again at a point north of Langford Lake. This was a route discussed at an earlier date and presumbly shelved in favor of one which would roughly parallel the existing road from Parson's Bridge but by-pass Colwood corner and Langford Lake

If it proves feasible the suggested new location will avoid heavy traffic at Langford village and also in the

It had been argued in favor of the other proposed route that it would meet the requirements of a large number of people coming in from the communities adjacent to Colwood.

Since a high percentage of traffic the lower reaches of the Island Highway originates in that area, the case was presented that a better roadway was needed there. However, if through traffic were diverted, the existing road with certain improvements would probably meet local requirements.

The chief public objection to the roposed route comes from commercial concerns now established on the section of the Island Highway which would be by-passed. That attitude is easily understood. If the roadway diverted, some of the business now ssing their doors will disappear.

Certain auto court owners have iggested that the protest could be met if commercial development were banned on the suggested route and if direction signs were erected where the section diverges from the highto point the way to existing courts.

The suggestion has double merit. In the first instance it would avoid loss to established businesses and in the second it would avoid ribbon development on a new road. The lat-ter would conform to up-to-date thinking in relation to express high-

As a means of quick and safer passage between the city and up-Island points the revised plan under study by Mr. Gaglardi has much in its favor. It appears, moreover, to make provision for future needs, furnishing an outlet that will avoid the congestion inevitable on the alternative route as the community grows outward.

UNFIT FOR HUMAN CONSUMPTION

SOMEWHERE in these pages, a few weeks back, I read a complaint from Victorian touring in France. He said that the food in the country was very ordinary but very costly. In Paris it is even more costly, but "of the same in-ferior quality." It occurs to me that this unhappy man is going to the wrong places. Or else he is unwilling to try a places. Or else he is unwilling to try a little search for what does happen to suit him. He doesn't go into much de tail. The only specific complaint is against finding veal on every menu. And this veal is no good, because butchered while the calf is still living on milk. Ninety per cent of French veal, he says is unfit for human food. It should be illegal in any civilized country to kill calves younger than six months.

THERE is a good deal of food for thought here, if not food for that hungry explorer who is starving to death in the land of cookery. To begin with, most Frenchmen do not eat in restaurants frequented by tourists pecially in Paris. This on the authority of George Orwell, who worked in Paris restaurants and hotels for some time. and who had a sharp eye and enquiring mind. Orwell described excitement in one tourist-catching restaurant when two genuine Frenchmen dropped in for dinner. (It was a Rusdropped in for dinner. (It was a Russian place, all paint and fake antiques, and the food was murder, but the knives

A NOTHER thing: Andre Simon appre-A ciates the best British cookery as well as any good trencherman now livsays British veal is killed far too old.
In fact, it isn't really veal any more.
The best veal has lived on milk alone.
(I have heard Trish butchers say the same thing. They breed better cattle than the French, but ruin the veal by killing it too late.) Veal should be pure white, not even pinkish . . . as for red veal, it doesn't exist, for that is a contradiction in terms.

And again, what sort of French chefs would permit a menu with no way of would permit a menu with no way of avoiding veal? France, where chickens reign supreme! In fact, supreme is the very word, for the supremes of a chicken are filets cut from the breast, raw, and cooked (preferably) as follows: you season the supremes ever so slightly and then roll them over and over in some butter, just melted, to which lemon juice has been added (a few drops), and in the same pan, made airtight by a paste of flour and eggwhite round the junction of pan and lid, you put them in a very hot

YOU garnish them in at least two dozen ways, so that you could have different supremes for lunch or dinner every day for a fortnight at any decent place if you lacked the curiosity to branch out a little. Mushrooms, asparagus, truffles, foie-gras... all these add to the supreme or another. A foundation of puff pastry, with a puree of mushrooms . . . oh, and there is foiegras spread on the pastry . . . gives you Supremes de Volaille Rosamonde. Don't know who she was, that fair Rosamonde but she was obviously not—the girl to keep on ordering any veal she couldn't face. Ever resourceful, was our Rosie.

As for the noble army of omelettes you could feast on them for a whole month and be grateful. And the places to go the town of Dijon is full of them, and the whole province of Touraine, and most of Perigord . . . it would take years, with each day a happy one. And in Paris itself there is, or used to be, the Rotisserie Perigourdine, which Leoni calls the one thing you mustn't miss but stop me, stop me, I'm getting hun gry, pass me a hunk of crimson veal.

This experience hardly suggests that

DR. PEALE HAS NO APPEAL

My reference is, to Dr. Peale's teach-gs and to the assumption made therein at these are Christian teachings, and to the further assumption that it is possible for anyone to approach God regardless of whether they have secured a status before Him or not.

The articles are headed "Believe in Yourself" but it requires not a great acquaintance with the Bible to know that the foundation on which men are required to build is a belief about themselves as being sinners before God and a belief in God as having through the death of His Son made a way of approach for men to Himself. Some may no doubt secure help in use of Dr. Peale's teachings and if this should mislead them as to what the essential teaching of the Bible is they will actually in the long run be worse off rather than better One does not need to claim any great knowledge of the Scriptures to recog-nise that right on the surface of Revelation lie the great truths of Heaven and Hell, man's need and its remedy through death on the cross of our Lord, God incarnate. One does not question that the Times has principles which it observes but evidently it has not been realized that in ignoring Scriptural revelation as they do Dr. Peale's articles are a dangerous poison, leading men to an interest in and satisfaction with themselves which is unwarranted.

Where There's Smoke There's Taxes

Scratch a smoker nowadays and you will find a masochist. The poor fellow and his wife (to say nothing of their son and daughter) glory gloomily in the hole they are burning in the family Now, father and son, who smoke pipes, are under fire from the ladies. who, so far, stick with hardly an exception to cigarettes. The price of some pipe tobaccos has gone up by a half-penny an ounce and of others by a penny. Pipe smokers who take the plunge into abstinence from their darling habit have reason to perstrade the slaves to the easier and more seductive temptation of cigarettes follow their good example.

From America comes the prophecy that 1953 will be a nervous year and will increase by an astronomical figure the consumption of cigarettes, on which the average American is said already to spend 4 per cent of his income.

How much average British smokers spend is a question that they seldom dare to ask themselves. The nearest they get to it is to ask-from the pipe ow anyone burning twopence and a bit with every cigarette and—from the other side—what is the excuse for wasting tobacco, by spilling it and letting it go out.

Black indeed are pot and kettle in this unfinished debate. The middle aged, now paying four shillings and more for an ounce, recall, as they gaze stoically through the soothing cloud, that they once thought, a shilling too much. The elderly, looking back further but still within their memories as addicts, recollect that quite a decent smoke could be got for threepence

The cigarette has kept up in the inflationary race. There was a time when five could be had for a penny by a man of modest tastes. Chancellor after Chancellor of the Exchequer has cracked his little joke as he clapped on another weight of taxation laughingly, so smokers say, described as "indirect"— and, again and again, the trade has called on the customer to bear his bur-

Nor has it-nor will it-call in vain The economic man of the classical text books is not, whatever else he may be, a smoker. As these reflection end, and a fumbling for matches begins, who will be so tactless as to remark that they used to cost 21/2d for 12 boxes?

SPOILING THE BROTH

Penny Mines Draw Support At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)-Low-priced mining issues continued to draw attention toward the market's close today as they boosted stock market volume to its highest point since Jan. 29. Volume was expected to total about 8,500,000 shares.

Uranium issues slipped slightly as two leaders, Gunnar and Chimo, lost small amounts. The market generally was weaker with only western oils holding firm.

Gunnar lost 55 cents in a turnover of 125,000 shares. Chimo traded 425,000 shares to lose 11. New Delhi and Nesbit-Labine

Western oils showed a wide list of advances led by Canada Southern, Fargo, Husky, Peace River and Royalite. , Higher-priced base metals, Golden Manitou, Normetal, Western Tungsten and Belle-keno gained. Senior golds were mixed and juniors balanced gains and Industriasl were mixed to slightly weaker. Interprovincial Pipeline, listed today, opened at $29 and dropped back ir.

London Firm

LONDON (Reuters) - Markets generally maintained their firm undertone on the stock exchange today.

British government securities were shaded during the morning but later put on what they had lost and in some ases a little more. Industrials continued in quiet demand apart. An upward movement oc-curred in shipping shares but oils eased. Oils eased.

Big B.C. Saving From Department Transfer Seen

British Columbia will save $46,000 from the transfer of the and natural gas resources from the lands and forests depart-ment to the mines department, Lands and Forests Minister Robert E. Sommers said in the Legislature Thursday night.

The House gave second reading, approval in principle, to a bill providing for the transfer. Staff reduction possible be-ause of the transfer would save $12,410 in salaries, and the amalgamation of the present coal, petroleum and natural gas laboratory in the lands depart-consum Glass 144 15 Maxwell 64 7 Maxwe ment with the mines laboratory will save another $33,595.

"The mines department with its staff of engineers and laboratory technicians are rully qualified to take over the administration of these resources, with a material reduction in an are expenditures," said

Officials of the oil industry are confident that the prospects of ever-widening markets for western Canadian oil are setting the stage for a tremendous expansion of the industry by next fail.

By that time, it's suggested producing companies drawing on the Alberta oil fields will have all the markets they can fill, according to estimated production capacity of fields now limited to a pro rata allow-table output.

This will be brought about by

In the final analysis continu ation of the IWA will depend upon whether the United States and United Kingdom can reach agreement on the prices to be set out in the agreement.

If the U.S. and the U.K. finally reach an agreement on prices it is the belief here that the prices will certainly be acceptable to Canada as they are certain to be higher than the agreement. Authorities here doubt that the U.K. will ever agree to the high price of $2.50 which the Americans asked at the outset of the negotiations.

Clip Black Hawks As Leaders Lose

Montreal 3, Chicago 2 Boston 3, Detroit 1

The rookies who led Montreal Canadiens into last year's Stanley Cup finals but seemed to fizzle out as sophomores this National Hockey League season are again reaching the heights.

In Chicago Thursday night was Dick Gamble with two goals and Dickie Moore with one who gave the Montrealers a 3-2 decision over the Black Hawks.

The victory moved the Cana diens to within three points of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, who dropped a 3-1 de-cision to Böston Bruins. The two points hoisted Boston into a fourth-place deadlock with the idle Toronto Maple Leafs.

Australia Admits Olympic Problems

Officials Fear '56 Games May Be Lost

SYDNEY, Australia (UP) —Several prominent Australian athletic officials have expressed doubt that Melbourne will be able to stage the 1956 Olympic KUZMA GETS PAIR

Even though the problem of a main stadium may have been solved by the 120,000-seat Mel-bourne, Cricket Grounds, there was a growing fear that the city does not have the facilities for other major sports like swimming and rowing, nor can it build a suitable Olympic village for housing the athletes.

The pessimism was expressed by Berge Phillips, a member of

"You must have the best facilities available for every sport," he said. "So far we have heard only about the main sta dium for the track and field events. Nothing has been said ROCKETS IN about many of the other sports like fowing, for example."

Many Australians believe that the International Olympic Committee, as its meeting in Mexico City in April, will ask some embarrassing questions of the Australians about their facili-ties for staging these other sports. Many other Aussies say flatly that the IOC will take the games away from Melbourne at its next meeting and award them to another city—perhaps in the United States, where Detroit and Los Angeles would like to stage the 1956 games. Australian officials have allo-300,000 pounds Heaneys vs. Civil Service, first round of Jackson Cup series.

At Santurce, the official scorer gave one batter a fielder's choice instead of a hit. The team at bat im-nediately threatened him with physical violence. Afraid, ne changed it to a hit. Four of the city's top lawyers marched Fishing and hunting is big business in British Columbia, and nearing the million-dollar mark.

Total revenue from sport fishing and hunting in the province in 1951, including fines imposed for violations of the Game Act and other acts and regulations, was $930,720... an increase of $129,871 over the previous year.

The 1951 report presented to the government by Game Commissioners Frank R. Butler and James G. Cunningham, contained the pleasing statement "it was the most successful year in the history of the B.C. Game Department, not only in segard to revenue, but also in improvements in the general game situation throughout the province." (Reason the 1951 report is so tardy is because of the difficulty in compil-ing returns from such a large area). The revenue increase was principally due to the fact that more people were trying their luck in lake and stream and on the game trails, 23,829 more angling and hunting licenses being issued than in 1950.

Fishing and hunting licenses for resident and non-residents during the year netted $656,510. Non-residents knocked off 2,549 big-game trophies, or 448 more than the previous year and an interesses of $255,510 in temphy fee payments.

Mr. Eric Nicol, the scholarly operator of the column in the Vancouver Daily Province called, appropriately enough, "Eric Nicol," has become entangled with prepositions.

This is apt to happen to anyone who is compelled to work with (or is it against?) the English language, but Mr. Nicol is considerably franker about his war with the prepositions than most of us.

He states, unequivocally, that "these things baffle me," and with consumate skill demonstrates that a person who has not memorized Fowler's Modern English Usage, is likely to be thrown into the next county by an innocent-appearing "to," or "of" or "against."

In devoting his Thursday stint to a practical demonstra-

"to," or "of" or "against."

In devoting his Thursday stifft to a practical demonstration of the traps set by the wily preposition, Mr. Nicol was unexpectedly trapped by another, enemy of the erudite columnist, the always-lurking typographical error.

Taking the reader into his innermost confidence, he wrote: "It doesn't matter how many times I note that 'oblivious' takes 'off'—when it comes time to use it I go-chicken and settle for 'unaware.'"

What a touching picture this conjures up. There is poor Mr. Nicol, shivering in the damp Vancouver air, with his unaware off.

But I am a believer in free speech, and will do so

It is reported that Mr. Frank Snowsell, the pedagogue who is CCF member for Saanich, also ran head-on into the English language this week.

In his maiden speech in the Legislature, he caught himself fracturing an infinitive, dead center.

He began a sentence "to effectively represent," then corrected himself smoothly by saying "To represent effectively, all of us should."

Mr. Snowsell's former pupils will be pleased at his fast recovery. But a few of them, who have an ear for words, will wish he had said "to be effective representatives, all of us should."

Answer: Ever think of saying "Hello" or "How do

Sable and Silver Fox? Just Ole Brer Rabbit

By PENNY SAVER

Brer Rabbit is all stewed up these days! Seems like he can't get into the spirit of celebrating National Rabbit Week!

At first he was feeling mighty proud of that display of beautiful coats in a certain window on Douglas Street. when he put his ear to the ground he heard that there s a booklet of "Delicious Rabbit Recipes" alongside. Since then Ole Brer Rabbit has been laying mighty low.

Here is one of the tastiest recipes—RABBIT POT PIE. We'll assume you've already caught your rabbit or purchased it at 68 cents a pound.

% to 2-lb. dressed rabbit, 3 cups boiling water, 3 tbsp. or other fat, 3 tbsp. chopped onion, 1% tsp. salt, ½ cup 1% to 2-lb diced green pepper, 3 they flour, 4 tsp. sait, 3 cup diced green pepper, 3 they flour, 4 tsp. pepper.

Wash and cut rabbit into pieces for serving. Cover and cook slowly in boiling water to which 1 tsp. salt has been added, for 14 hours or until tender. Drain and save broth. Remove meat from bones, and dice. Melt butter in saucepan. Add onion and green pepper and cook five minutes or until tender. Blend in flour, salt and peoper. Stir in broth and tender. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Stir in broth and boil two minutes. Add rabbit meat and heat thoroughly. Pour into baking dish. Cover with pot pie crust. (Use your favorite pie crust recipe.) Bake in hot oven (425 F) for 20 minutes, or until crust is brown. Serve at once. Serves four.

TANGY HASSENPFEFFER—1% lb. dressed rabbit, 1 cup cider vinegar, 1½ cups water, 2 tsp. salt, ½ tsp. pepper, 1 tsp. whole cloves, 2 tsp. sugar, 6 bay leaves, 1 cup sliced onions,

Wash and cut rabbit into pieces for serving. Put into enameled china or glass bowl. Pour offer the mixture of vinegar, water, salt, pepper, cloves, sugar, her leaves and sliced hours. Take rabbit from liquid and drain. Roll in flour and brown in is inch of hot fat. Add liquid in which rabbit was cooked, cover tightly and simmer one hour or until rabbit is Serve with gravy remaining in pan, strained if desired.

These should be enough to keep you hopping!

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

When a life knows that her husband's love has been given to another woman and that she and her children see little of him, what can she do? That is the problem facing the woman

(Q)—"Until three years ago, I lived a happy, normal married life. I have two small constantly reminded by everything he does that he regards me merely as a housekeeper and cook. He doesn't want to break up be-cause of the children but he isn't frying to be a good father and we never do anything to-gether as a family. He practically lives away from home except to eat and sleep. Things have been in this state for nearly two years and I can't feel that he is going to change. Hun
I still love my husband but don't want to live as lonely this for the rest of my life. What shall I do?"

(A)—You must make your husband realize that he cannot have his cake and eat it too. Obviously he loves his children enough not to want to give them up. They should be the weapon you use to get him back into the family fold.

Since he is acting like a stranger in his own home, I ques tion whether you could make much headway by discussing the problem with him. It would be more effective if it came from neone else.

Perhaps the person best qualified to straighten out your marital tangle is a marriage counsellor. If there is one in your community, go to him and let him see what he can do for you. If, on the other hand, you do not have a marriage counselling service near enough, the next best person for you to turn to is your minister.

Tell him the whole story and let him then get in touch with your husband. You must take a firm stand on the fact that you will not tolerate the treatment you have been given for the past two years. Let your husband know that it is one or the other he must choose, you or arswer because, actually, swim-ming tends to make the figure normal. It is splendid for those women who wish to build contour, but it also works off those pads of fat. Therefore, it is a splendid exercise for the figure as well as the health of the thin woman or the fat one.

Presentations Made at Meeting

Mrs. G. Ree received her past president's pin from president Mrs. E. Jarvis, at a meeting of Ladies' Auxiliary, Britannia Branch, No. 7, Canadian Legion, and in turn presented a life membership to Mrs. Jarvis for her many years' work with the group.

Reports were heard from Mrs. A. C. Craib who announced 353 visits to veteran patients in hospitals during the month and the flood fund and a donation made to legion educational serv-ices for books and magazines for men in Korea.

Conveners named were: Mrs. F. W. Wilson, layettes; Mrs. M. Holmes, pianist; Mrs. C. W., Burbury, home sick visitor;
Mrs. S. J. Mayzes, telephone;
Mrs. E. Swan and Mrs. Ree, delegates to district council meeting on Feb. 20; Mrs. G.
Danby, food parcel for Britain.

Plans were made for a crib and court whist, a social evening and a spring tea this month and a cooking school demon-stration in late March.

Sooke Women Meet

A lengthy program of busi ness and entertainment occu-pied members of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute when they met recently. Business portion of the evening was highlighted by a report given by Mrs. D. J. DeRochie, on the recent reorganization of Sooke Harbor Cemetery Company, and a discussion concerning aid to European flood virtims.

An interesting talk on her trip through the United Kingdom and Continent last summer was given by Mrs. G. D. Elgar. Members enjoyed amusing contests under direction of Mrs. James Martin, and refresh-ments were served

In addition to two D-2 wells at Calmar, Alberta, subject only to Government Royalty and a limited number of barrels payable from 15%, the Company owns a 25% interest in three producing Viking wells in the south Campose field which gives a net production income

The Company also owns 50% interest in a cased and capped gas well in North Acheson field pending a favorable market outlet.

Approximately 2000 acres in the Calmar Golden Spike and West Campbell are owned by the Company, as well as 10% interest in 2,560 acres at Elk Island, Alberta.

Varied percentages of interest in the Camrose area (aside from production) amounts to some 1.280 acres. A well is to be drilled shortly by a major company, on a legal subdivision offsetting our own production, in which we have approximately a sixth interest. This site is offset by production on three sides. A similar interest is held on another legal subdivision in the same half section.

As operators of a 320-acre tract farmout from Crystal Oils Limited at Wapella, Saskatchewan (first well to test the Mississippian-Devonian), if necessary, a well will go down approximately one mile from present production. Sturgeon Petroleums Ltd. will have a net interest in the well and acreage amounting to 15%.

Sturgeon Petroleums Ltd. will have a 10% participation and a net interest of 6% in a well and acreage to be drilled shortly on a 14,080 acre reservation (at Barrhead, Alberta, on a farmout from Thurston Developments Limited).

The Company also owns a 10,000-acre spread of freehold acreage in Saskatchewan, with a half section approximately one and a half miles from production at Dewar Lake, and a further 71½% in some 33,000 acres already gone to lease from the Saskatchewan Govern-

The Company has been most active having drilled independently, or participated in the drilling of 16 wells since receiving its charter in late 1950.

Not Asked, Anyway

Comedians Bob Hope, left, and Jack Benny today termed "a joke" complaints in Toronto that their gags belittle the British Empire. They had been mentioned as possible headliners for this year's Cana-dian National Exhibition and labor leaders in Toronto said they were unsuitable because they wisecracked against Britain. Hope said "I can't understand why they're so touchy. Far be it from me to belittle the British Empire any more than I would joke about the President's chair . . . but when it comes to Ike's golf or Churchill's painting, that's different. Benny said he was always careful of his gag material, "and what's more, I have never belittled the British." Also, both comedians said they hadn't been approached to star at the CNE, anyway.
